About Fenix Entertainment:

Young but already established in the audiovisual sector having won numerous national awards, Fenix Entertainment is a production and distribution company of cinematographic, television and musical contents, which is characterized by being present in the entire value chain: from the choice of the subjects, to the screenplay, to the production/co-production/post-production, to the distribution. The exploitation of post-production works takes place through traditional channels (cinema, free TV, Home Video) and extends to the most innovative Video On Demand platforms.
